This individual was in Frankfort during the exciting times leading up to the assassination of Governor Goebel, but slipped away so quickly and quietly afterwards that he was not missed for a long time. He may not have been a party to the most damnable crime of the century, but his actions are suspicious and the fact that he has joined the infamous band of fugitives, who live under the protection of a perjured Governor, makes it almost as strong as proofs of Holy Writ that he is as deep in the mud as they are in the mire. May the mud as they are in the mire. May the good Lord hasten the time when each and every one of them will have his neck broken.-Harrodsburg Democrat.
